“ Al and I shared so many wonderful boyhood memories. He was one of my best friends who lived up the road from me. I would go to his house often, spending the night, riding minibikes and exploring all of the acreage behind his house. We met in... must be second grade and became fast friends.

I believe children are as close to God as we can get here on planet earth and the pure innocence of a child is the truth of things. I knew Al from this time, when we were just little boys exploring our imaginations, being superheroes and cowboys fighting bad guys and monsters. We did some stupid things, some dangerous things that I'm still paying for today. As adults, though there were miles between us and we saw each other less often, I still consider him a dear and close friend.

I knew Al's pure and generous spirit. This is the true nature of my boyhood friend and this is the truth of the man. You will always be in my heart, my friend.
