“Pawpaw, I love you. I'm sorry that over the years life kept me from visiting more often. I'm sorry that we didn't talk as much over the years. I'll always regret not taking the time to come visit you or pick up a phone and talk to you more often like I should've. I'm blessed beyond measure for having a man like you claim me as your grandson, even though we weren't blood related. You loved and cared for me like I was. For most of my life you were the only grandpa I ever knew and I was completely fine with that. No one could ever measure up to you. You were the best golfer and fisherman and the best pecan picker I ever knew. A God fearing, Korean War veteran... you were one of my childhood heroes growing up... I am Bob(bie) Bell's grandson! Thanksgiving and Christmas is when your absence will hit the most, as I'm sure it will with the rest of the family, since it wasn't a family holiday if we weren't at Granny & Pawpaw's... most of my favorite childhood holiday memories growing up took place with you at your house usually with the rest of the family. The way you stood firmly in your faith and religion, and the way you were so family oriented, is something I will always admire about you. You were supposed to marry me to my future wife, but it took me too long to get my life together and to find one that I want to spend my life with. When it does come time for me to be married one day, it'll never be the way I wanted it to be, since you're no longer here with us. I will forever cherish and hold near to my heart all the trips and memories we made in my life. From the Blue Bell tours, to the Dr. Pepper museum in Waco and Dublin, and all the fishing and camping trips to Lake Proctor, Hilltop Lakes, and Somerville...to taking me and Danielle to the little mom and pop burger shop in Commanche where I finally tasted beans and learned that I loved them during our camping/fishing trip to Lake Proctor. I still talk about that place to this day as I was upset that we were eating at a place that served beans with hamburgers instead of french fries until I finally did like you asked and tried the beans! You taught me a valuable life lesson that day... I learned that I should try something before I judge it and that is a moment and a lesson that I will always remember and will stick with me for the rest of my life! And how could I forget the day you and Granny, took us to Aquarena Springs in San Marcos where I got to see a swimming pig for the first time ever! I'll never forget riding around in the glass bottom boats, looking at all the huge catfish and bass that swam by underneath....or the mermaid show where they ate their lunch underwater! My heart hurts PawPaw, and it's mostly because I didn't get a chance to let you know how much I love you, and how grateful and blessed I am for a grandpa like you. Thank you for accepting me and loving me as you did, Pawpaw. I'll forever miss our conversations, the scent you had when I'd hug you, and just miss you terribly altogether. I'm glad you're not in pain and suffering anymore and have found your way to the Pearly Gates and into God's arms. Please watch over all of us until it's our time to meet again. I love you PawPaw. 💙💔🙏

Please say a prayer for my grandmother as she has been married to my grandpa almost all of her life, and please say a prayer for my dad, aunt, and the rest of our family during this time. I know it is said all the time, but hug and let your family members know how much they mean to you... You never know when it might be their time to say goodbye.

“ Bobbie worked in Building 44 of the maintenance department at Alcoa and since many of my years were in the same building we spoke together many times. A very nice and upbeat man that always brought a ray of sunshine. My sympathies to the family. May God care for each of you.
