“ The last time I saw you, Uncle Jimmy, I was 12 years old. I remember you as a big, 'ole teddy bear. You were always smiling and happy. Back in the early 90's my family was sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner and the phone rang and it was you. It had been close to 30 years since we had talked. During our conversation you told me the thing you remembered about me as a child was that, "I could run like a deer." For some reason that has stayed with me all these years. You lived a great life, Uncle Jimmy. You will be missed by everyone who knew you. RIP my sweet uncle.

“ Hi Chris, this is Joyce, Carrie's older sister. Since Jimmy and I were the same age we always played when our families visited. He lived by the bay so we would look for crabs or other sea creatures. He was always a little mischievous, but so was I, so we would always have such fun.

As we got older, we went our separate ways, marrying, working, having children. But he was always my first cousin and we had made memories that was etched in my mind.

When I moved back to Dothan a few years ago, we resumed our friendship. We had both aged and looked different, but when he flashed that big smile, I could see the little Jimmy I knew as a little partner in crime. He loved a good laugh and always had lots of stories. They were always entertaining and made you laugh and sometimes you wondered how he lived to tell about them. Since I had lived in Ethiopia I had plenty of good stories too so we never ran out of conversation. We spent much time on the phone talking about life. He missed Wanda very much and it was hard for him to keep going, but he eventually did.

And Chris, he was very proud of you. He bragged about you a lot, and I am so glad we met you when we visited Jimmy a few years ago. He was a good southern man, hard working, and honest. He loved his little critters he fed that lived around his house, sent pictures of deer he watched outside his window. He had a good heart and I think today he would say, he had a good life and loved and appreciated his family and friends. We will be in touch with you later. Our prayers are with you and your family.

Praying for all the family. Jimmy and my twin brothers (Dennis and Jennus Kilpatrick) were the best of friends growing up. Jimmy came by for a visit with us just after the hurricane last Oct. I am sure he and Wanda are having a great time now. RIP my friend.
