“ Jim loved to go fishing. He also was good with his hands building things. He was a Master Carpenter. He also was a great family man. I guess that is why God called him from this earth so soon. God needed someone to go fishing with and tell about the one that got away, help him to build places for others, and help greet people coming into the God's Kingdom. Jim will be missed but never forgotten.

He was a loving man. I will never forget how much he loved you and the grandbabys. He was always trying to stay busy, never liked to stay inside. You did everything you could do and he would be proud of you for fighting for him no matter what. Y'all have a place in my heart. You are his fire work. ❤️
