“Lavita, my sister, that nothing was to big to her she did not work to conquer, no one so distant to her that she would not befriend and show you all the potential and gifts you had inside. Lavita, with the quick laugh and the crazy sense of humor. Lavita, with the hugs and all the promises things would get better. Lavita, my children's hero the one who for years gave them her heart and the gift of her time completely. Thank you for the adventures, thank you for being my partner in crime when we were young, Larry will know what this means. There are those that leave this earth and will be so missed and then there are those that will be missed indeed, and that at their leaving there was a shift in the world that was of a sense of a profound loss that even the earth itself felt. I will run the streets of heaven with you. I will look to the word for comfort knowing that God is the comforter of those left behind. I will thank God often for your children and grandchildren, your nephews and nieces who will forever carry a part of you to share to the world. You are with Him but His light though the lives of those that you touched still shines. I love you.
