

Lou-Ida Marsh-Simmons

January 1, 1934 - August 7, 2022

Lou-Ida Simmons Marsh, 88, of Caldwell, Texas passed away peacefully on Sunday August 7, 2022.

Lou-Ida was born a New Year's baby in 1934 in Orange, Texas. Always sharing the story of her doctor being in a tuxedo, she was the last of three siblings born to her parents Byron Simmons and Lou-Ida Blades Simmons.

Graduating from Orange Stark High School, Lou-Ida attended Texas State College for Women in Denton gaining a degree in Speech Communications. After marrying James H. Marsh III, on August 27 1955, they moved to Caldwell where she began teaching four days after their wedding. Mom would often recall meeting her future husband when she was four years old. They met again when Jim became good buddies with her brothers during and around the Korean War.

As a teacher at Caldwell High School, Lou-Ida enjoyed her students and taught the subjects of speech, theatre, and journalism. She became the school's One-Act-Play Director and brought UIL Theatre Competitions into the school system. She was quite adept and learned quickly, honing her skills, and began advancing through several levels of competition; eventually earning two State titles with two State runner-ups.

Lou-Ida retired from teaching in 1984 and earned a Master's Degree in Theatre History from the University of Texas. With this degree behind her, she set forth an illustrious career of judging plays, directing/critiquing at summer workshops, and working with teachers in Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee as well as becoming renown in the State of Texas as an Educational Theatre Consultant.

As a founding member of the Texas Educational Theatre Association, she believed that theatre was first an educational tool and developed many workshops with that in mind. She was also a keen competitor and helped spin off the sister agency – “AO” – the Adjudicators’ Organization which provides information and guidelines for those adjudicating student competitions today. In her capacity, she met directors from across the state from public schools to elite colleges and universities.

After mom retired from public life, she kept up with many friendships she had made along the way including that of her college roommate as well as other retired contemporaries and former students. She developed a passion for the Houston Astros baseball team and hardly ever missed watching a game. She loved her pets (Gretchen & Hutch – the “beagles”) and her outside kitties (“Front Porch Cats”). She transformed the back yard into a haven for birds, squirrels, frogs, toads, bees, and the occasional o’possum. Her love of animals and nature passed through to her daughters.

Lou-Ida was predeceased by her husband, Jim Marsh in 2014, and is survived by two daughters (Melissa Anne Marsh and wife Kelly Timmons of San Antonio and Mollie Marsh of Caldwell). The family requests that in lieu of flowers that donations be made to the Caldwell Veterinary Clinic, 845 Presidential Corridor E Caldwell, Texas 77836, with a memo in the message line for “City Animals.”

“ Lou Ida was my supervising teacher when I did my student teaching. She only had 2 and it was very special that I got to see her work. As a teacher, she was beyond fabulous and much loved by her students. I considered her a mentor that greatly impacted my work as a teacher. Years later, I got the privilege to compete against her at the one play contest and was overjoyed when she won. As an individual, Lou Ida was the loveliest of ladies to get to know. She had great impact on Texas theater and was highly respected. Rest in peace lovely lady.

“ We were fortunate enough to get to be the Marsh's neighbors for a couple of years - so many wonderful memories! Miss Lou-Ida had such a way with words. I can remember things she said from 20 years ago that make me laugh and still ring true. She was truly one of a kind. May God comfort you during this time.
